› INTRODUCTION

Cereals are a fundamental part of human nutrition. New technological principles, novel varieties, ingredients, additives and processing aids support the development and production of innovative, appealing and safe grain-based food products.

Advanced analysis methods and nutrition studies deepen and expand the understanding of how important the individual cereal ingredients are.

Quality assurance, labelling, trade and consumer communications are key criteria for successful and sustainable marketing of such products.

Interested persons and organizations are asked to submit their proposals for lectures and posters for evaluation (please send in abstracts only). Company presentations and sponsor contributions are also welcome.

📍 HOW TO GET THERE

🚗 By car

Nuthetal / Bergholz-Rehbrücke is located on the Autobahn A115 which connects Berlin with the motorway junction Dreieck Nuthetal (A10 / Berliner Ring). Please take the exit »Saarmund« and follow the signs to Potsdam. Drive about two kilometers along the road - the Dife main building will be on your right.

🚆 By train

The distance from the train station Potsdam-Rehbrücke to the Dife is approximately 1.3 kilometers. There are frequent train connections from Berlin Main Station (travel time approximately 30 minutes to Potsdam-Rehbrücke) or from Potsdam Main Station (from there take tramline 91 or 93 which brings you to the Dife in about 10 minutes).

✈️ Mit dem Flugzeug

Berlin has two airports: Tegel and Schönefeld. On arrival, take the public transport system with its excellent connections to Bergholz-Rehbrücke. For example, train RE7 will take you from Schönefeld airport to Potsdam-Rehbrücke (travel time: approximately 1 hour).
